

HOW TO ACHIEVE 30% ROI WITH ERP AND FP&A

Nucleus Research delivers research and insight based on actual ROI assessments. In a recent study of Unit4 ERP and FP&A solutions they found:

Unit4's benefit-to-cost ratio is 30% higher than that of the total ERP market across both service and asset-centric industries.

When using Unit4's complementary solutions, customers reported increased user productivity, reduced operational costs, and improved organizational visibility.

Unit4 ERP returned $1.78 for every dollar spent.

All companies analyzed achieved a positive ROI with a payback period from one year to under two and half years.

Unit4 customers cut monthly reporting processing times by up to 90%.

Using just one platform reduced hardware and maintenance costs, with one customer reporting over $120,000 in annual subscription savings.

Automated workflows and streamlined procedures cut costs by redeploying full-time employees to other value-added tasks. One organization saved 50% in annual IT staffing costs by reducing its system and data maintenance burden.

Organizations can segment financial and operational data by marketing channels, regions, and time periods, providing a single version of the truth.
