

Rotterdam University chooses Unit4 ERP for greater efficiency and control

Rotterdam University has chosen Unit4 ERP after a European tender process. This integrated SaaS solution allows the university to set up processes more efficiently, provides control from one central system, and benefits from improved data analysis and reporting capabilities.

Some 40,000 students are enrolled, and 4,500 people work at Rotterdam University. Being a large organization where systems are used by both employees and students through the student portal, it is important that there is uniformity and that the systems are user-friendly. In the past, different solutions were used for different business processes, which hindered efficiency. The university, therefore, sought a solution that combined software for finance, procurement, and projects into one system.

Industry best practices have already proven their value

Unit4's ERP system will replace current solutions for finance, procurement, and projects. The solutions being implemented are based on industry best practices, avoiding the need for customization, and have already proven their value. Working with Unit4 ERP will reduce the number of manual actions and interfaces the university works with. It will also ensure that all information is up to date at all times, enabling informed decisions to be made by various departments based on this information. Ron van Kints, AIC director at Rotterdam University: "By switching to Unit4 ERP, among other things, we are ensuring that our employees are really in control. This is because they can effectively process the data from the ERP system and use it to reach the right decisions. It also helps our employees to work more efficiently from an integrated workflow so that we can focus on our mission: developing professional talent. We are convinced that Unit4 is the right partner to help us further in this.

The fact that they work with tools that have both a field-proven application and the flexibility to move with them as times change gives us confidence that things will continue to go well."

Jochen Wiessler, Regional President Continental Europe at Unit4:

"We are very pleased that Unit4 has emerged as the preferred partner from the European tender held by Rotterdam University.

Higher education is an important sector for Unit4, and in this regard, our ERP solution is an excellent fit with this market. Rotterdam University and Unit4 already knew each other from another Unit4 solution. That they now also want to take their next step together with Unit4 confirms how highly our constant commitment to the highest possible customer satisfaction is valued.”
